Jane nails this one. Repetition, visualization, organization, backtracking , cues, dissection and grouping are all techniques discussed in this short, but to the point book. Improving your focus, mental acuity, and overall memory is achievable, it just takes a little bit of effort and the right techniques. The techniques that will work best will vary by person, so knowing and understanding all of these techniques and how to use them will help you try and test out which ones work best for you individually. I would recommend this concise read to help you improve your focus and memory.
